NOTES & NEWS

Help Berries Stay Fresh

Summer is peak season for blueberries, blackberries and raspberries. The best way to store fresh berries is in a breathable container on the middle shelf of the refrigerator. Placing them on the top shelf or in the crisper can trap moisture, making the fruit spoil more quickly.

Celebrate Safely

We encourage all of our residents to take advantage of the gorgeous and patriotic fireworks displays that will be taking place around town during the evening of Independence Day. But don't plan on creating your own show within our community. Fireworks of all kinds are against our regulations. So leave the "kabooms" to the experts and celebrate safely at one of the local fireworks festivals.

Positive Thought

"Some of the best memories are made in flip-flops."

—Kellie Elmore

BULLETIN BOARD

Pucker Up and Protect

When applying sunscreen, don't forget lip balm with a sun protection factor of 15 or higher. Reapply often, since the thin skin on lips can burn easily.

Skip the Soda

If you order soda every time you eat out, you're wounding your wallet: Soft drinks are one of the most marked-up items on restaurant menus. Save a dollar or two per meal by choosing water instead, and reserve soda for special treats.

Pool Safety

We want our pool area to be safe and fun for everyone. Please remember that there is no lifeguard on duty and glass is not allowed in the pool area. Pool hours are from 10:00 am to 9:00 pm. For your own safety and out of consideration for your neighbors who live near the pool area, please do not use the pool after hours. We appreciate your cooperation.

Independence Day

On July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress approved the Declaration of Independence. A few days later, on July 8, the first public reading of the document occurred when Col. John Nixon read it to an assembled crowd in Philadelphia.

Happy Fourth!

Happy Independence Day to all our residents! We hope you have a fun and festive holiday.

Yankee Doodle Dandies

This Independence Day, tip your top hat to these shining stars who share a birthday with America.

Nathaniel Hawthorne. His novels and short stories are mainstays of early American literature classes, so it's fitting he was born in 1804 on the nation's day of independence.

Calvin Coolidge. To date, he's the only U.S. president with a July 4 birthday. Born in 1872, he served as the country's 30th president from 1923 to 1929.

Gloria Stuart. Born in 1910, she began her acting career in the 1930s and is best known for her role in 1997's "Titanic," for which she earned a best supporting actress Oscar nomination.

Ann Landers and Abigail Van Buren. Did you know these competing advice columnists were identical twin sisters? They were born Esther and Pauline Friedman in 1918 in Iowa.

Bill Withers. The smooth-voiced singer who gave us hits like "Lean on Me," "Ain't No Sunshine" and "Lovely Day" was born in 1938, and served nine years in the U.S. Navy before beginning his music career.

Andrew Zimmern. Born in 1961 in New York, this celebrity chef has spent years introducing TV audiences to "Bizarre Foods" around the country and the world.

Post Malone. He was born in 1995, and like the nation he shares his birthday with, this bestselling artist's music style has been called a "melting pot" of genres, including rap, hip-hop, pop, country and grunge.

Malia Obama. Did having a patriotic birthday prepare President Barack Obama's oldest daughter for life in the White House? Born in 1998, she turned 16 during her father's second term and learned to drive from the Secret Service.

Safety Tips for Starting a New Workout

Whether you're just getting started on your fitness journey or exploring a new-to-you exercise, treat your body well by following some general safety guidelines.

It's a good idea to check with a doctor before beginning a new fitness routine, especially if you have any injuries or health conditions.

Loose-fitting, lightweight clothing is ideal for exercise. You also need a pair of tennis shoes that fit well and provide support.

Before any activity, even walking, warm up for 5 to 10 minutes with some gentle stretches, such as squats or shoulder rolls, as well as marching in place.

Start slow, especially if it's been a while since you exercised. Maintain an easy pace and keep your workouts short. Gradually increase the length and intensity as you get stronger and more comfortable.

When strength training, good form is key to preventing injury. Practice new exercises with light weights until you're confident with the movements.

At the end of your workout, cool down for 5 to 10 minutes with some easy stretches.

Always listen to your body. Some muscle soreness is normal, but consult a medical professional if you experience intense or persistent pain. It's also OK to skip a workout if you're feeling sick or tired.

Keep Your Cool While Cooking This Summer

When you can't stand the summer heat, stay out of the kitchen—or at least make meal prep as easy-breezy as possible. Here's how:

Limit oven use. As the oven preheats, the kitchen warms up too, and it takes a while to cool down afterward. Choose recipes that don't require an oven. When you do turn it on, take advantage of the hot oven and cook double batches, as well as foods you can use for multiple meals, such as baked potatoes or chicken.

Put tabletop appliances to work. A microwave, toaster oven, slow cooker and multicooker all use less energy than an oven or stovetop, and foods will still come out tasting great. Bonus: There's often less cleanup involved with these options!

Take shortcuts. You can let someone else do the cooking for you and still have a partially homemade meal. For example, a rotisserie chicken can be used for several recipes or served as is with a simple side dish.

Chill out. When possible, opt for cold, no-cook foods such as sandwiches and wraps, green salads and pasta salads, hearty dips, cold soups and smoothies.

Eat in season. Take advantage of the peak growing season and plan meals around fresh produce. A snack board featuring raw fruits and veggies is easy to throw together and requires no cooking.

WIT & WISDOM

Give Boredom the Boot

Boredom can have many causes. Maybe it's too hot to go outside or you've already binge-watched the latest TV shows. Psychologists say boredom is when we crave a satisfying activity, which is why doing something productive, like cleaning, doesn't always cure our blah state of mind. The next time you're feeling bored, consider one of these ways to solve it.

It can be helpful to look at periods of boredom as opportunities to widen your knowledge. A reading challenge can help you explore new genres or brush up on the classics you never got around to reading in school. Similarly, you could work on watching a list of iconic movies.

If you've not hopped on the jigsaw puzzle trend, you may be missing out on a major piece of fun. Sales of puzzles went up by more than 300% within the past two years, as people of all ages rediscovered a familiar pastime that challenges the brain and acts as a meditative activity. You can find puzzles in all sorts of sizes, shapes, designs and difficulty levels.

Doing a kind deed is a way to entertain yourself while also helping others. Pull out some paper or blank cards and write some letters to faraway friends or relatives. Show support for your community by attending some local ball games, or stop by an animal shelter to walk a dog or cuddle a cat.

One Minute Chef

Strawberry Spritzer

Fresh, fruity and fizzy: This delicious drink is all you need to quench your summertime thirst!

Ingredients:

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
- 2 liters lemon-lime soda or ginger ale, chilled
- 1 can (12 ounces) frozen pink lemonade concentrate, thawed

Directions:

Place strawberries in a blender and process until smooth.

Pour blended strawberries into a large pitcher. Stir in soda and pink lemonade.

Serve immediately or chill until ready to serve.

Try these tips:

- Garnish each glass with a slice of lemon or lime, fresh strawberries, or a sprig of mint or basil.
- For a lower-calorie drink, use club soda or seltzer water instead of lemon-lime soda.
- Forgot to defrost the strawberries? Add 1 cup of the soda to the berries before blending.
